SUMMARY: The Special Master addresses counsel and states there is agreement in the written comments that: (1) Any determination that might be made in this contested case should apply only in the San Pedro River Watershed. (2) A body of technical and hydrological data must be compiled in order to arrive at a standard. The disagreement is on how to obtain that technical data. We need a body of technical data in order to arrive at a determination in this contested case. (3) It is premature to talk about discovery, disclosure and a briefing at this point. The Special Master requested discussion of the following issues: (1) Can the data that is needed to formulate a de minimis standard be obtained through test wells, or do we need a supplemental San Pedro River Watershed HSR? (2) Should we have a uniform standard or a use specific standard for other uses? The Special Master directed the Department to file by January 31, 2006, a report informing the Court about ADWR's policy decision not to continue, or to do any work, in regard to Judge Ballinger's Subflow Order and to provide information on the Department's efforts to seek legislative appropriations for the adjudications current to the day of filing this report. The report shall also include the tasks ADWR can do this year and the tasks the Department is currently working on, including the Zuni and Gila River Indian Community Settlements.
